INDEX TO THE MONTHLY SUPPLEMENT TO WHO'S WHO (CURRENT BIOGRAPHICAL REFERENCE SERVICE) FOR PERIOD, JANUARY 1944 THROUGH DECEMBER 1945

THE MONTHLY SUPPLEMENT TO WHO'S WHO IN AMERICA has been available since December of 1939. Bridging the two-year interval between the issuances of WHO'S WHO IN AMERICA, it provides timeliness without necessitating the usual annual expense of a definite volume. Together, WHO'S WHO and THE MONTHLY SUPPLEMENT (Current Biographical Reference Service) give an extraordinarily complete coverage of both names permanently, and those currently, in the public eye. So that the names of all biographees who have therefore been sketched may be readily at hand for reference purposes, the following index to sketches appearing in THE SUPPLEMENT from and including the January, 1944, issue, up to and including that for December, 1945, is provided. The sketches of the biographies listed below appear in the issues of the SUPPLEMENT designated—Roman numerals refer to volumes, Arabic to pages. THE SUPPLEMENT from its inception through the December 1943 issue is indexed in Volumes 22 and 23 of WHO'S WHO IN AMERICA. An index to all non-current sketches of living WHO'S WHO biographies (up to and including Volume 22) will be found in the current Library Edition of WHO WAS WHO IN AMERICA.

A NOTATION IN REGARD TO THE GEOGRAPHICAL INDEX

The months during which it was necessary to print this volume unfortunately fell within the post-war adjustment period characterized by total cessations of work and frequent retardations of production. As a result several features planned for it had to be set aside in order to reduce production time requirements in an effort to restrict serious delays which it was impossible to prevent. Among them was the Geographical Index, which wartime raw material scarcities had eliminated from the preceding volume, but which had been scheduled for resumption with this printing. Despite staff and clerical shortages, the considerable amount of time required for the compilation of this Index had been provided throughout the period during which it could not be printed. The editors' disappointment under the necessity of withholding publication of it has therefore been pronounced, and in order to make the current compilation of it available to the extent of a limited printing separate from the volume, they are arranging to have it put into type. So long as these copies last, they will be mailed to those requesting them from The Editors at The Marquis Publications Building, Chicago 11. Libraries and other reference centers needing more than one copy will, if possible, be serviced. It is anticipated that the Index can be reinstated with the next edition.

The Fourth Biennial Citations for Exceptional Educational Philanthropy

This first year of peace sees the fourth award of the WHO'S WHO IN AMERICA biennial Citations in recognition of the two gifts to American educational institutions (including libraries integrant parts of them) which most outstandingly meet certain conditions. The conditions remain the same as when the Citations were first announced in 1938. In respect to one Citation, they are that the gift consist of money or securities, and that it represent a greater proportion of the plant value and endowment of the institution benefited than any other corresponding gift called to the attention of the Board of Editors. The conditions for the second Citation are that it shall be a memorial, and that, in the opinion of the Board of Editors, it represents the most outstanding gift of its type coming under their scrutiny.

The initial Citations awarded in 1938 and recorded in Volume 21 of WHO'S WHO IN AMERICA attracted nation-wide interest. In connection with the last Citations—recorded in Volume 23—it was noted that this interest had been steadily increasing and that practical results might well be implied from a noticeable increase in smaller-sized gifts currently very appreciably strengthening the endowment funds of American educational institutions.

Indications are that this specific interest in the Citations—and in educational philanthropy in general—is continuing, for the gifts noted over the past biennium were of much greater proportionate size than for the previous similar period. This is a heartening sign indeed, for a surge of such interest during the first years of peace would be of the utmost importance if the institution of the independent American school and college is to withstand the forces agitating against it.

During the war years independently controlled educational institutions—particularly the smaller ones—were too often forced into the background by the overwhelming emphasis, albeit necessary at the time, put upon vocational and specialized technical training, in the majority of cases government sponsored and supported. The distinctly American institution of the independent schools and colleges has so far weathered the storm, but if it is to continue to withstand the powerful pressures put upon it and hold its place in our democracy, the private support so essential to its life must increase in ratio to the augmented opposing forces.

To this end the Board of Editors has continued the Citations — singling out typical gifts as a means of encouraging giving to all worthy institutions and particularly emphasizing those outstanding on the score of the proportion they bear to the resources of recipient institutions, regardless of size. And to this end the Board as well remains unstintingly at the service of those giving to institutions of learning. The reports of trained representatives making first hand investigations, advice to prospective donors concerning tax factors involved, and the evaluation of gifts of a non-momentary nature, will be available to a greater extent than heretofore.

The Board of Editors has announced, as detailed below, the fourth biennial Citations for the period from October 1, 1943, through September 30, 1945, after considering the unusual large number of gifts brought to their attention from all sections of the country.

A CITATION

FOR A GIFT TO

PACIFIC UNIVERSITY

Frank L. Knight

IS POSTHUMOUSLY AWARDED THIS CITATION AS THE DONOR OF THE MOST SUBSTANTIAL GIFT IN RELATION TO TOTAL ENDOWMENT AND PLANT VALUE TO AN AMERICAN INSTITUTION OF HIGHER EDUCATION BROUGHT TO THE ATTENTION OF THE EDITORS DURING THE PERIOD FROM OCTOBER 1 1943 THROUGH SEPTEMBER 30 1945

GATEWAY TO HOPE AND OPPORTUNITY—ACCESS TO VISTAS GONE AND STILL TO BE

The Fourth Biennial Citation for the gift largest, among those reported, in proportion to the combined endowment capital, plant and equipment of the recipient institution.

The fourth biennial Citation honoring the gift largest in proportion to the combined endowment capital, plant and equipment of the recipient educational institution, has been awarded posthumously to Frank L. Knight, of Portland, Oregon, former president and general manager of the Knight Packing Company. Mr. Knight's gift of nine-seventeenths of a $700,000 estate represents 37.8 per cent of the total endowment capital, plant and equipment of Pacific University, Forest Grove,

Oregon, the donee institution. Proportionately one of the most outstanding gifts ever brought to the attention of the Board of Editors, Mr. Knight's benefaction is equivalent, on the basis of the recipient institution's figures, to over $82,000,000 given to America's most heavily endowed university.

Mr. Knight, who died in March, 1945, symbolizes the American story of individual accomplishment which the independently controlled schools and colleges have so often helped to write. He first went into business as a hardware merchant in Des Moines, Iowa, in 1884, and later moved to Tacoma, Washington. Those were the great lumbering days on the Pacific Coast and for eight years Mr. Knight operated a shingle mill at Olympia. In 1899, however, he moved to Portland, bought a vinegar company and reorganized it as the Knight Packing Co., of which he was president and general manager until 1936, when he retired. From 1925 until his death he served Pacific University as a trustee.

This gift is emblematic of the best in educational philanthropy: the placing of the fruits of a typical American career, upon death closing it, in the charge of one of those chief protectors of the way of life which makes possible the free pursuit of such careers, the independent American educational institutions.

The Board of Editors has awarded Honorable Mention to the following donors of gifts considered noteworthy because they also represent unsually high percentages of the recipient institutions' combined endowment capital, plant, and equipment:

MISS JULIA R. ROGERS

Were it not for the extremely high proportion the Knight estate bore to the combined endowment capital, plant and equipment of the recipient institution, Miss Julia Rogers of Baltimore would undoubtedly have been awarded posthumously the Citation because of her bequest of $890,000 to Goucher College, Baltimore. As it is, a "specially meritorious" honorable mention is certainly deserved, for her gift represented 22.9 percent of Goucher's combined endowment, plant and equipment, making it one of the largest proportionately ever brought to the attention of the Editors. Miss Rogers was long a benefactor of education, having formed with friends the Baltimore Association for the Promotion of the University Education of Women. The Association awarded fellowships for advanced studies outside of Baltimore, and when Johns Hopkins University opened the doors of its graduate school to women, the funds of the organization were given to Goucher College to establish a lectureship. Miss Rogers also gave her home to the College Club, an organization of Baltimore college women.

MRS. MINNIE A. HOWELL

Also of outstanding proportionate size is a foundation established by Mrs. Minnie A. Howell of Dickinson, Texas, which represents 17 percent of the total endowment capital, plant, and equipment of the donee institution, Southwestern University, Georgetown, Texas. Mrs. Howell gave $10,000 in cash, property valued at $60,000, and arranged for additional property to come to Southwestern at her death, so that the total capital of the foundation will come to about $95,000, or the equivalent of a gift in excess of $36,000,000 to America's wealthiest university. The proceeds will be used for pre-medical and pre-theological education.

MRS. HENRY PFEIFFER

Mrs. Henry Pfeiffer (Annie Merner Pfeiffer), who has devoted her life to educational and religious philanthropy, was awarded honorable mention for her gift of $100,000 to Tennessee Wesleyan College, Athens, Tennessee, which amounts to 13.7 percent of that institution's combined endowment, plant and equipment. Mrs. Pfeiffer had previously given approximately $295,000 to the college for buildings and endowment. Her WHO'S WHO sketch may be found on page 1857.

HERBERT LEE KOKERNOT

Baylor University, Waco, Texas, is the recipient of one of the largest gifts in point of monetary value to be brought to the Editor's attention in connection with the proportionate basis on which the Citations are awarded. This striking benefaction amounts to $1,000,000, the valuation of a building given by H. L. Kokernot of San Antonio. This gift from Mr. Kokernot, long a rancher in two Texas counties—Brewster and Lubbock—represents 10 percent of Baylor's combined plant, endowment and equipment. The WHO'S WHO sketch of Mr. Kokernot, who is a trustee of Baylor, appears on page 1315.

HUGH BUTLER

A Senator of the United States, the Honorable Hugh Butler, the Senior Senator from Nebraska, has given Doane College, Crete, Nebraska, a cash gift totaling $145,427, or over eight percent of Doane's total endowment, plant and equipment. The gift is to be divided between scholarships, building and endowment. Senator Butler is sketched on page 343.

OSCAR CRISMAN and B. A. CRISMAN

Typical of an effective manner in which the rewards of a successful business career may be used to benefit education is the gift of a $70,000 library building to David Lipscomb College, Nashville, Tennessee, by the late Oscar Crisman and B. A. Crisman, founder and present owner respectively of the Crisman Hardware Company of Chattanooga. In appreciation and commemoration, the College will name the building the Crisman Memorial Library. It is interesting to note that already this gift has stimulated others—for example, $20,000 to purchase books made available through contributions from the members of the Church of Christ of Chattanooga and Hamilton Counties, Tennessee.

Outstanding Memorial Gifts

BAYLOR ALUMNI ASSOCIATION

For the first time a WHO'S WHO Citation has been awarded to a group inclusive of donors rather than to an individual giver to an American education institution. It is anticipated that this precedent will be the forerunner of many recognizing non-individual benefactions. This award, exceptionally significant if indeed it proves to be precursive, cites en masse the entire membership of the Alumni Association of the Baylor School, Chattanooga, Tennessee, under the fourth biennial Citation for the most outstanding memorial gift called to the attention of the Board of Editors. Through the efforts of the Association, aided by the school's Trustees, approximately $100,000 has been raised for the construction of a gymnasium as a memorial to Baylor men who served in World War II.

The Board of Editors requested Baylor School to name one or more individuals to whom the Citation might be awarded, but due to the cooperative manner in which the campaign was conducted, it was felt best and most fitting that the Citation name the Alumni Association as an organization. In this the Editors were glad to comply, for, although they have stressed the importance of benefactions by individuals, it is the act of giving to American educational institutions, rather than the method happening to be used to realize that end, they most wish to aid through the biennial Citations. Gifts from alumni associations and the like are naturally of prime importance in this type of philanthropy.

This gift is only one of several called to the Editors' attention which in one way or another were designed to memorialize those who gave their lives in the war. In one instance the father, a professor at a large university, created a memorial fund in honor of a son who lost his life in the European Theater. And in another an Army officer who died in France left most of his estate to his college—but specifically as a current gift, not as a memorial.

Such gifts, creating either group or individual memorials everlasting to supreme wartime sacrifice, seem certain to become increasingly characteristic of educational philanthropy—for instance, the Baylor gift, viewed purely in the light of its size, aside from the manner in which it was contributed and the cause which it memorialized, amounts to over 66 percent of the school's endowment. Certainly no more fitting memorial is available to the many searching for appropriate everlasting commemoration of loved ones whose lives were given to preserve that which has been so well served by the nation's independent educational institutions—American democracy. It is the expectation and hope of the Editors that numerous memorials of this nature will be given in the next biennium.

GATEWAY TO HOPE AND OPPORTUNITY—ACCESS TO VISTAS GONE AND STILL TO BE

The Fourth Biennial Citation for the memorial gift to an American institution of learning selected by the Board of Editors as most outstanding.

The Board of Editors has selected the following memorial gifts for honorable mention:

THE GARDNER COWLES FOUNDATION

Three of America's noteworthy newspaper publishers are Gardner Cowles, Gardner Cowles, Jr., and John Cowles. Mr. Cowles, Sr., is chairman of the board and publisher of The Register and Tribune Publishing Co., of Des Moines, Iowa, and Gardner Cowles, Jr., is associate publisher, while John Cowles is president of the Minneapolis Star Journal and Tribune Co. Gardner Cowles, Jr. is also president of Look Magazine and of The Gardner Cowles Foundation—the latter created by his father, his brother and himself as a means of sharing the benefits of their success. To The Gardner Cowles Foundation the Board of Editors awards honorable mention for its gift of $100,000 to Simpson College, Indianola, Iowa, to be used for the construction of a science hall as a memorial to another eminent American—George Washington Carver, the great Negro scientist, whose career began at Simpson. The WHO'S WHO sketch of Dr. Carver, who died in 1943, can be found in Volume 22, while the sketches of Mr. Cowles, Sr., Mr. Cowles, Jr., and John Cowles appear on pages 507 and 508 of this issue of WHO'S WHO.

MRS. FRANKLIN HALSTED CLAPP

Of particular current interest is the memorial gift of Mrs. Franklin Halsted Clapp, of Pulaski, Tennessee, to Martin College of that city. This gift took the form of a fund in memory of her husband, Dr. Franklin Halsted Clapp, prominent Methodist Episcopal clergyman for many years, and, at the time of his death, professor of psychology at Martin College. This fund began with $2,500 and has steadily increased. Recently it was used to found the Clapp Memorial Lectures on "America and the Postwar World" which are given annually at Martin College for the benefit of its students and the people of the surrounding community. The last published WHO'S WHO sketch of Dr. Clapp may be found on page 372, Volume 23.

SAMUEL HENRY KRESS

Honorable mention was also given to Samuel H. Kress, New York City, founder, and presently chairman of the board, of S. H. Kress & Co., the multi-store retail enterprise with establishments in many cities on this continent and several in the Hawaiian Islands, and president of the Samuel H. Kress Foundation. Although minor in comparison with many of Mr. Kress's numerous benefactions, an important specific significance attaches to this gift to the College of the Pacific, Stockton, California, of the Kress Aeolian Organ, valued at $35,000, and a famous painting, "The Assumption of the Virgin," by Calisto Piazza de Lodi. The interesting import of this gift to both donors and donatees points to the possibilities of giving more effectively under current tax laws than is generally understood. For example, items of personal property of value to the donatee may, after sound appraisal, be treated by the donor as his, or part of his, tax-free allowance on account of gifts to qualifying recipients, including, of course, non-profit libraries and educational institutions. Mr. Kress's WHO'S WHO sketch is on page 1323.

Citations for Exceptional Gifts for Libraries

Libraries being an integral part of the educational picture in America, the Board of Editors decided four years ago to present Citations for exceptional gifts to them as well as for those to educational institutions. The interest in these library Citations is proving to be most encouraging. Perhaps the soundest indication of their effectiveness as stimulants to library donations is the fact that among those brought to the Editors' attention this year are some of the largest and most interesting they have yet had the satisfaction of considering.

The library Citations are similar to those recognizing selected gifts to institutions of learning. One honors the donor of the gift which, among those brought to the attention of the Board, bears the largest ratio to the average annual income of the donee library. The other honors the donor of the gift selected from among those conconsidered by the Board, as being both outstandingly unusual and exceptionally typical of effective memorial giving to libraries. Gifts received during the period of October 1, 1943 to September 30, 1945 have been considered for the third biennial Citation. Those presented to libraries which are integrant parts of educational institutions were judged in connection with the Citations for exceptional educational philanthropy.

GATEWAY TO HOPE AND OPPORTUNITY—ACCESS TO VISTAS GONE AND STILL TO BE

The Third Biennial Citation for a gift largest, among those reported to the Board of Editors, in proportion to the annual income of an American library.

MRS. MARY CRAWFORD BURT

The third biennial Citation for the gift bearing the highest ratio to the average annual income of the donee library has been awarded posthumously to Mrs. Mary Crawford Burt, of Columbiana, Ohio, in recognition of her gift of $28,833 to the Columbiana Public Library. This gift, with the exception of those that in effect actually created recipient libraries, is the largest, proportionately to the annual income involved, ever considered by the Board, for it is over eight times—specifically, 819 percent of—the Columbiana Library's average income. All familiar with the need for increasing the means at the disposal of typical libraries can readily envision what a gift such as this can mean to a small library, not to mention the resultant effect on the entire educational and cultural development of the community served by it. In fact, a gift of the same relation proportionately to the income of one of the country's larger libraries would run into tens of millions of dollars.

Mrs. Burt died in April of 1944 and her gift to the Columbiana Public Library was the residue of her estate after a few specified gifts of smaller size. This residue constituted by far the largest proportion of the estate, representing approximately 70 percent of the original total.

The Board has selected for honorable mention, from among the many gifts to libraries called to their attention, the following which represent unusually large ratios to the recent average incomes of the libraries benefited — indeed, one is almost equivalent to the gift receiving the Citation, the awarding of which, as noted below, depends entirely on percentages:

GRACE INGHAM SPETTIGUE

Representing almost as impressive a ratio to the average annual income of the recipient library as does that of Mrs. Burt—to which however the Board necessarily awarded the Citation because the mathematical factors involved are, of course, decisive—is the gift received by the Free Public Library, of Phillipsburg, New Jersey, from the late Grace Ingham Spettigue. This gift amounts to $50,000 and is again one of the largest proportionately ever brought to the attention of the Board, being 811 percent of the library's average annual income. It is to be used either for a new library building or for an endowment fund.

ANONYMOUS

The Douglass Community Center Library of Kalamazoo, Michigan, received an anonymous gift of $500 which is certainly deserving of honorable mention since it in effect assured continued existence to a library with an average annual income which was almost negligible. The donee is an institutional library serving over a thousand Negroes.

MISS NELLIE WILLIAMS

One of the most interesting gifts considered by the Board was that of the late Miss Nellie Williams of New York City to the Martin Memorial Library, York, Pennsylvania. Not only did Miss Williams bequeath the library $2,000 in cash, but, as well, anything in her house the library could use. As a result it benefits to the extent of rugs valued at $1,500, a grandfather's clock and secretary with an overall valuation of approximately $1,600, and as well pictures, chairs and other pieces. This gift is a prime example of the type which benefits the donee institutions as much as cash or marketable securities, and even more if acquisitions not readily obtainable are involved.

FRIENDS OF THE MARIETTA COLLEGE LIBRARY

Illustrative of two noteworthy characteristics of giving to libraries and enducational institutions—that neither wealth nor identification with an individual are restrictive conditions—is a gift to the Marietta (Ohio) College Library from an organization in name and purpose typical of many effectively aiding libraries throughout the country—The Friends of the Marietta College Library, whose gift alone represented somewhat more than the Library's entire annual income. This small philanthropic organization is made up of the students and faculty of Marietta College and about 60 citizens of the town of Marietta, interested in aiding both their local educational institution and, as well, the library serving it and their community.

Outstanding Memorial Gifts

DR. WILLIAM A. WELDON

The third biennial Citation for the memorial gift to a library, considered by the Board of Editors most outstanding among those brought to their attention, and most emblematic of this type of giving, has been awarded to Dr. W. A. Weldon of Glasgow, Kentucky. Dr. Weldon gave to the Glasgow Public Library a building, valued at over $20,000 and remodeled at his own expense. The building is to be named the Mary Wood Weldon Memorial Library in memory of Dr. Weldon's mother.

The Glasgow Public Library was previously not only very small, but did not own its own building. Now, due to Dr. Weldon's generosity, it possesses its own quarters and, as well, the citizens of the town are furnishing the new building with special library furniture at a cost of approximately $6,000. Thus Dr. Weldon's gift stands not only as a fitting memorial to his mother and a substantial benefaction to his home community, but also serves as another fine example of stimulation to further giving resulting either directly or indirectly from a donation to a library or educational institution.

Dr. Weldon, a specialist in ophthalmology, received his M.D. from Vanderbilt University in 1916. He is now oto-rhino-laryngologist at the T. V. Samson Community Hospital, at Glasgow, a member of the American College of Surgeons, and a diplomate of the American Board of Ophthalmology. Details of his professional career may be found in "The Directory of Medical Specialists" (Third Edition, published by The A. N. Marquis Company, under the supervision of the Advisory Board for Medical Specialties).

From among the many other examples of exceptional memorial gifts brought to their attention, the Board of Editors has selected the following as worthy of honorable mention:

The Third Biennial Citation for the memorial gift to an American library selected by the Board of Editors as most noteworthy.

DR. CHARLES R. BROWN

Another noteworthy gift, also memorializing the donor's mother, is that of Dr. Charles R. Brown of New Haven, Connecticut, to the Washington Public Library, Washington, Iowa. Dr. Brown has presented the library with $10,000—over three times its average annual income—in the form of a memorial to his mother, Mrs. Sarah J. Brown. Dr. Brown has spent his life in the clergy, and was dean of the Divinity School, Yale University, from 1911 to 1928. He is now dean emeritus. Before joining the faculty at Yale he was pastor of the First Congregational Church, Oakland, California, and a moderator of the National Council of the Congregational Church. He has also written numerous books on religious subjects. Dr. Brown's WHO'S WHO sketch is on page 291.

JOHN JACOB FISHER POST, AMERICAN LEGION

Libraries as well as schools and colleges have benefited from gifts motivated by battlefield sacrifice and wartime service. A notable example is the gift of a stone building to the Punxsutawney Free Library, Punxsutawney, Pennsylvania, to serve as a memorial to all men and women in wartime service for the country. The building was purchased by the John Jacob Fisher Post of the American Legion from the mother of the World War I soldier for whom the post is named, and immediately presented to the town for use as a public library.

CITIZENS' AID SOCIETY, MINNEAPOLIS

Still another organization has been awarded honorable mention by the Board—the Citizens' Aid Society of Minneapolis for its gift of $50,000 to the Minneapolis Public Library. The money is to be expended at the rate of $10,000 annually for the benefit of the entire library. It establishes the George H. Christian Memorial Fund, named in honor of the founder of the Citizens' Aid Society of Minneapolis. The library's Social Service Branch had been made possible by a previous gift from the Christian estate.

In connection with this example of continuing philanthropy, it is interesting to note that, in the biennium covered by the Citations, the Minneapolis Library received a second gift of $5,000 from Mrs. Emil Oberhoffer. It continues the purpose of a preceding gift—also of $5,000—from her providing for the purchase of outstanding scores and musical books. In appreciation the Library has named its music department the Emil Oberhoffer Music Room in memory of Mrs. Oberhoffer's husband, co-founder and first conductor of the Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra. Mr. Oberhoffer's last published sketch is on page 909 of WHO WAS WHO.

WILL DEMAND NOW EXCEED SUPPLY IN "THE REPUBLIC OF LEARNING"?

On the opposite page the latest educational analysis of WHO'S WHO IN AMERICA biographees confirms an exceedingly important development which had been suggested by the corresponding summary published two years ago.

The new development thus reflected establishes that a highly significant percentage of the higher educations interrupted by World War I were never completed.

That legislation has been enacted providing assistance in completing educations interrupted by World War II is highly encouraging.

Unfortunately, the record and the prospect in respect to that assistance is not, however, correspondingly heartening.

Indeed, postwar reconversion problems are arising in "The Republic of Learning" quite as threatening as those besetting the commerce and industry of the Nation. In that "Republic," too, there are big and small units. And in it, too, the big units have exceptional access to the "market" and "trade names" attractive to the "consumers."

What has happened in "The Republic of Learning" is simply that—in terms of the market place which apply there more markedly than is often admitted—a number of the "big name" publicly-controlled units have so decisively "gone to town" in the "market" supplied by Federal educational assistance they now find themselves "sold out" while tens of thousands of veterans thoroughly deserving resumption of war-interrupted educations remain unserved.

Stated less commercially, inducements—even reported in certain instances to extend to scholastic credits—voluntarily or involuntarily offered by some of these larger colleges and universities, mainly or completely tax-supported, threaten to swamp them with students availing themselves of Federal educational assistance. Regardless of the quality of the instruction which can be supplied under over-crowding, if this threat materializes the dominating problem will be how to provide for the thousands of veterans yet to be served.

While it would no doubt be highly instructive to appraise in detail some of the specific causes involved in this threat of "scarcities in the staple lines" within "The Republic of Learning," the immediate needs are ways and means to provide for those whose educations have been interrupted by wartime service but who would otherwise be turned away on seeking class room space.

Fortunately, in "The Republic of Learning" there are—again the parallel with the world of commerce and industry is striking—highly worthwhile independently-controlled schools, colleges and universities which have not been "sold out" in the present unusual educational "market."

Indeed—and again the parallel!—these schools, colleges and universities are in a position to provide important values which some among larger and more widely-known institutions no longer can regularly "stock." These values include close contacts between faculty members and students, less expensive housing and subsistence, and individually-adjusted relationships which develop capacity to think and to evaluate.

These institutions still able to serve the demand for education, and to serve it with what is perhaps the soundest type of education this country has developed, are of course our smaller independently-controlled schools, colleges and universities which, in varying degrees and with exceptions, either still have available educational capacity or are in a position to provide it with a minimum of assistance in equipment and housing.

If preventing disastrous "famine scarcities" in "The Republic of Learning" is to depend on these smaller independent educational institutions' remaining facilities and any opportunities to expand them, how best can these assets now so essential to the Nation be strengthened and brought into the vital service of continuing war-interrupted educations?

The great majority of these independently-controlled schools, colleges, and universities have neither the inclination nor the organizational facilities to press nationally for students, to bargain either widely or politically for emergency housing and equipment surpluses.

Therefore let it be seen to that all those agencies which have been so markedly at the service of the larger colleges and universities now busy themselves in the service of the smaller independently-controlled institutions—satisfying any faculty and plant needs they may have—bringing to their attention students of ability whose educations have been interrupted by the war—carrying to those seeking resumption of war-broken educations, news of the exceptional worth of that rounded preparation for citizenship in "The Republic of Learning" which is offered by them.

In short, let it be seen to that these agencies and all on their staffs become Expediters of Resumed Education concentrating on bringing together our smaller, independently-controlled, schools, colleges and universities and suitable veterans whose chances of continuing war-broken studies are now endangered by the threatening "cultural shortages" being reported by "principal producers" in "The Republic of Learning." And let it be also a "top priority" task of these Expediters of Resumed Education to obtain for these independently-controlled smaller institutions whatever they can effectively use in providing sound education.

For the danger is imminent that if such action is not taken, "The Republic of Learning" may indeed fail to meet the essential demand the Nation can look to it alone to supply—and which if left unsatisfied means dangerous repetition of the World War I record of tens of thousands of interrupted educations never resumed; and a starvation more fateful than any of the body—starvation of the mind.

IF EDUCATION INDEED BE PRICELESS, WHAT A LOSS THIS!

Year-to-year variations in the educational statistics of WHO'S WHO biographees result almost entirely from the "new" names added during compilation of each Edition—in other words, those never before listed in WHO'S WHO. By far the greatest proportion of these new biographees in Volume 23 and the current WHO'S WHO received their higher education during World War I.

This fact was pointed out by the Editors in the preceding educational study printed in Volume 23 (1944-45), and as well the significant trend indicated by the statistics when compared to those compiled for Volume 18 (1934-35), containing a proportionately much larger group of biographees who attended colleges and universities during a comparatively normal—and certainly peaceful—era in American history, the pre-World War I period.

This significant trend, stated simply, indicated that more of those in the war-years group (those sketched in the 1944-45 Edition) had desired higher education, but fewer had graduated from a college or university.

Study of the statistics for the new names alone in the present edition (1946-47)—which contain the greatest proportion of World War I "collegians" yet to come to the Editors' attention—completely confirms this trend.

Strikingly confirmatory of an increasing desire to attend institutions of higher learning are the following statistics: among the noteworthy Americans sketched in Volume 15 (1928-29) of WHO'S WHO, 85.09 percent were "collegians"; while the statistics for six years later—Volume 18 (1934-35)—as shown in the accompanying chart, reveal that, 86.56 percent were "collegians."

This revealing indicator, however, becomes most impressive when the statistics for the new biographees in the present volume are considered—in respect to them the percentage of "collegians" rises to 88.62 percent.

But—and here the significant trend is evident—the percentage of college and university graduates among the 1934-35 group—predominately those whose education was not interrupted by war—was 74.73 percent, while for the new biographees in the current volume—the first to reflect to any important degree the effects of World War I on educational backgrounds—the corresponding percentage has dropped to 72.93 percent.

Even more decisively corroborative, however, is the fact that the non-graduates listed in the 1934-35 Edition represent but 13.66 percent of the "collegians" sketched in that volume, while the percentage of non-graduates among the new biographees in the current volume who attended college rises to 17.70 percent. In other words, of the group whose higher education was interrupted by the first World War, 30 percent more did not graduate from college than in a group of supposedly similar ability matriculating at colleges approximately a decade earlier, but in times of peace.

	29,389	100.00	8,667	100.00
*Percentage of non-graduates to total collegians		13.66		17.70

What is responsible for this striking decline is the fact that while a majority of those first sketched in this Edition were at college they were called to war and a great many never resumed their studies.

It thus becomes evident, first, that since World War I lost to the country priceless higher education among those now listed in WHO'S WHO—approximately 1 out of 7 of those attending a college or university being affected—the national interruption of their higher educations, on the basis of college attendance for the period involved, reached to over 50,000; and second, that calculating on the same basis, World War II has similarly reacted upon some 800,000 students.

Surely the import of a loss of that magnitude, if taken in full measure, would be greater by far than the unprecedented dollars-and-cents cost of the war, and second only to the toll in casualties.

Accordingly, what can be done to forestall it, now while there is yet an opportunity, becomes perhaps our most pressing problem.

Is all that has been planned for meeting that problem being carried out competently? Are effective steps being taken to prevent World War II re-levying upon us, multiplied many times, the World War I loss denoted by the statistics above? Is all that could be done being done?

Educational Announcements

Parents desiring to gain reliable information concerning the best schools for their sons and daughters, and young men and women who desire to avail themselves of the best obtainable educational facilities, are invited to consult carefully the educational announcements in the following pages.

These announcements well represent the school and college equipment of the country. They contain much interesting and instructive information which cannot fail to be exceedingly helpful in a study of educational opportunities, from Kindergarten to University.

For the sake of convenience the educational announcements are grouped, as nearly as possible, according to the following classifications:

Universities, pages 2718-2729
Colleges for Men, pages 2729-2734
Colleges for Women, pages 2734-2750
Co-Educational Colleges, pages 2751-2770
Co-Educational Preparatory and Junior Colleges, pages 2770-2771
Girls' Preparatory and Junior Colleges, pages 2772-2780
Boys' Preparatory Schools, pages 2781-2791
Girls' Preparatory Schools, pages 2791-2796
Co-Educational Preparatory Schools, page 2797
Day and Correspondence Schools, page 2798
Kindergarten Training Schools, page 2798
Medical Technique School, page 2798
Technical Schools, pages 2799-2800
Utilities Engineering School, page 2800
Aviation School, page 2800
Theological Schools, page 2801
School of Music, page 2801
Schools of Business, pages 2802-2803
Dental School, page 2804
Military Schools, pages 2804-2812
Military and Naval Schools, pages 2813-2814
Correspondence and Home Instruction Schools—See Classified Index

Three indexes covering the educational announcements may be found preceding this section: 1st, according to type of the schools; 2d, by states; 3d, by alphabetical arrangement.

Requests for additional information concerning any of the schools designated will receive prompt attention, but in order to serve inquirers with entire satisfaction it will be necessary to know the type of school desired, the section of country most convenient for the student, amount to be expended, religious denomination, and any special characteristics of the student, that may assist in the selection.

Before choice of a school is finally made, it is often necessary to consult school or college catalogues, and to correspond directly with the head of the school or college which seems best to meet requirements.

Address all inquiries to The Educational Department, WHO'S WHO IN AMERICA, Marquis Publications Building, 210 East Ohio Street, Chicago 11, Illinois.

A.B., A.M., LL.D.
President

MERCER UNIVERSITY enters its 114th year of education, over a century of service, and offers students all the advantages of experience, strength, and influence that characterize this long established co-educational institution.

Located in a cultural center of the old South, Mercer University is surrounded by traditions of the best in education and offers opportunity for Christian development at a cost surprisingly low for an institution of its type.

$550.00 pays for a complete scholastic year including tuition, board, and all fees.

Mercer University is a standard, A Grade Senior College, and a member of the Southern Association of Colleges since 1911; the Association of Georgia Colleges; and the American Association of Law Schools.

COURSES of STUDY

A. HUMANITIES: Art, Christianity, Drama, English, French, German, Greek, Latin, Philosophy, Spanish.

B. SOCIAL SCIENCES: Accounting, Economics, Education, Government, History, Journalism, Law, Psychology, Public Speaking, Sociology.

C. NATURAL SCIENCES: Astronomy, Biology, Chemistry, Mathematics, Physics.

The College of Arts and Sciences offers courses leading to A. B. and B. S. degrees, with Pre-professional Divisions of Christianity, Economics, Business Administration, Education, Medicine and Dentistry. The Law School offers the LL.B. degree. The School of Christianity offers the A.B. degree.

Mercer alumni have made outstanding records in business, law, education, medicine, social service, and all walks of life. And today students at Mercer, who come from all sections of the country, are making equally fine records in scholarship, athletics, debating, and other student activities.

The University has splendid and adequate housing facilities, lending a home-like atmosphere, which enable the student to do his best work.

Mercer offers and encourages a wholesome social life on the campus for both men and women, and recognizes the value of development that comes through dramatic, social, literary, and athletic pursuits. The University is located at Macon, near the geographic center of the State, and is easily accessible to all parts of Georgia, and to the entire Southeast. Operated on a quarterly basis. Registration in Sept., Jan., March, and June.

WILLIAM SIMS ALLEN, A.M., Ph.D., LL.D., President

FULLY ACCREDITED

The John B. Stetson University is a co-educational institution consisting of a College of Liberal Arts, a College of Law, a School of Business and a School of Music. The University is a member of the Florida Association of Colleges, the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools, the Association of American Colleges, and is accredited by the State of New York. The College of Law is a member of the Association of American Law Schools, is on the approved list of the American Bar Association, and is also accredited by the State of New York.

CHARACTER GUIDANCE

Stetson stands for Christian education. It boldly emphasizes moral values, character and personal guidance. Yet there is no sectarian teaching. The motto of the institution is: "For God and Truth."

SITUATION and CLIMATE

The University is located in DeLand, about one hundred miles south of Jacksonville, near Daytona Beach. Situated on high pine land in a section remarkable for healthfulness, amid orange groves, native pine woods and well-kept lands, it offers unusual advantages of climate and has enabled many students, lacking in robust health, to continue their education, unhampered by the rigors of less favored climes.

Four Year Liberal Arts College
Founded 1857

Educational Objectives

Upper Iowa University seeks to give the student that breadth of information and that idealization of life which will later enable him to attain to posts of responsibility and enlightened leadership—in the church, in business, and in the professions.

To this end it offers the standard liberal arts courses, teacher training, preprofessional and business administration.

Furman University

Established 1826

A Standard Christian College for Men and Women

The youth of today need to be prepared to face a period of world reconstruction. Furman University seeks to provide opportunities for the acquisition of knowledge, the achievement of discipline, and the development of the will to serve, all based on firm religious faith. If democracy is to survive, it must have leaders with trained minds and trained hearts—the kind of leaders a Christian college seeks to develop.

JOHN LANEY PLYLER, President

UNIVERSITY OF DETROIT

Founded 1877 Detroit, Mich.

Arts and Sciences, Engineering, Commerce and Finance, Law, Dentistry

Facilities

Housed in a beautiful set of modern buildings on the outskirts of Detroit, the main campus of the University, embracing the Colleges of Arts and Sciences, Engineering and Day Commerce and Finance, provides excellent opportunities for the pursuit of educational objectives in a residential section that is part of the great city's life, yet removed from its greatest noise and bustle. A downtown campus in the heart of the city is maintained in addition and offers obvious advantages for instruction in the School of Law, Evening College of Commerce and Finance, School of Dentistry and Dental Clinic. Co-educational.

Objectives

The University of Detroit seeks to integrate professional, technical, literary and cultural training with a Christian philosophy of life. It aims at instruction and guidance in developing within the student a realization of himself and his basic human relationships through integration of spiritual and moral with intellectual and physical living. It thus provides an education which will later find expression through participation in the spiritual, intellectual, civic and social life of the community.

UNIVERSITY OF DAYTON

DAYTON, OHIO

Founded 1850

A progressive institution of higher learning for men and women located on a wooded 60-acre campus overlooking one of the midwest's leading cities, the University parallels the midwest in its development, traditions and achievements in contributing to the advancement of the nation. The University is one of the group of smaller private colleges and universities which forms a bulwark of Christian democracy. Conducted by the Society of Mary, a Catholic teaching order, but open to students of all faiths, the University possesses an outstanding faculty trained in leading universities of America and Europe and caters to a student body drawn from the United States, Territorial Possessions and foreign countries. Its aim is the complete and harmonious development of all the capacities of man's nature—religious, moral, intellectual, aesthetic, social and physical. This aim makes of college not only a preparation for life, but a vigorous part of life itself. While keeping abreast of modern developments, the University retains a firm link with the past and with the traditions of faculty and of students who for more than ninety years have labored in its halls and gone forth better equipped to meet life.

ROANOKE COLLEGE

SALEM, VIRGINIA
ESTABLISHED 1842

AN ENVIABLE RECORD. Roanoke alumni make up an imposing group of men who hold important posts in 47 states and 16 foreign nations. Training for the learned professions is emphasized. The school has operated continuously since 1842, being one of the few in the South remaining open during the war of 1861-65.

AN IDEAL LOCATION. Roanoke College is located in the heart of the far-famed Roanoke Valley of Southern Virginia. The climate is noted for its equability and the campus is within a few miles of some of the most picturesque peaks of both the Blue Ridge and Allegheny Mountains.

STANDARDS AND COSTS. A strong faculty of well prepared teachers is admirably equipped to train the mind in sound thinking, character, personality and general culture. Courses are offered leading to the A.B. and B.S. degrees. Pre-professional courses are offered in law, medicine, pharmacy, business administration, engineering, social sciences and theology. The college is fully accredited. Costs are remarkably low considering the nature of the institution, an estimated expenditure of five to six hundred dollars covering the complete cost of a school year. Scholarships are available and funds for the establishment of more scholarships are invited.

A RECORD OF FINE WOMANHOOD

Siena Heights College is a Catholic College For Women established by the Sisters of St. Dominic almost half a century ago under the original name of St. Joseph Academy. The best traditions of the Dominicans, primarily a teaching order, have been incorporated in the college system of education and have borne fruit in a record of fine womanhood attested to by flourishing growth and recognition not only in Michigan, but many other states.

The college aims to develop in each student a realization of her dignity as a woman, to provide both formally and informally training in the fine art of home-making, to inculcate a lasting appreciation of the fine and liberal arts, and to provide students with the ability to gain a livelihood through courses in teacher training, music, art, secretarial science, dietetics, clothing, radio, laboratory technique, etc. The college grounds occupy ninety acres of high, beautiful and healthful countryside upon which is located an attractive physical plant in the form of a quadrangle with Holy Trinity Sunken Gardens at its center.

The Sisters invite visitors passing through southern Michigan to visit the school and see its many points of interest, particularly Holy Rosary Chapel, the pride of Siena Heights.

COLLEGE OF NEW ROCHELLE

EDUCATION IN THE URSULINE TRADITION

The College of New Rochelle is heir to the culture brought to it by four centuries of Ursuline educational tradition. Ursuline education aims to form true and perfect Catholics as apostles and spiritual mothers for the church and for society by the development of natural talents. This education is based on philosophy, the classics, and on a thorough training in Religion.

True to this heritage the college has been maintained as a liberal arts institution seeking to instill in its students not only this appreciation of Religion and of the classics but also of the humanities and of the aesthetic ideals as expressed in the arts.

Ability to think, the application of the scientific method to investigation and research and the use of these as tools for advanced studies after graduation from college is fostered by the program in natural sciences.

The young woman at the College of New Rochelle is trained in an atmosphere of dignified simplicity by the personal contact of the Ursuline Nuns with their students, who always have been spiritual mothers to their pupils. This is a replica of ideal Catholic family life which sees that in all things God is the first to be served.

At the College of New Rochelle this service of God is further promoted by the maintenance of mental and physical health as a preparation for marriage, for homemaking and for motherhood. In the promotion and development of the Christian family as the unit of all society lies, more than ever, today, the hope of the salvation of the world.

To this equipment is added the study of social sciences, so that the New Rochelle graduate steps out of the smaller laboratory of life in the metropolitan area of New York, into the greater field of the world for which in four years she has received an intensive and thorough training.

The College of New Rochelle is on the approved list of the Association of American Universities and holds membership in several national educational associations. Courses are offered in fifteen (15) different fields of major concentration leading to the A.B. or B.S. degree.

SAINT MARY-OF-THE-WOODS

Established in 1840

Founded by Sisters of Providence from Ruillé-sur-Loir, France

PURPOSE and IDEALS

A standard Catholic College for women which has for its purpose the higher education of young women and their training in virtue according to the teachings of Christianity. Although a Catholic institution it welcomes and respects students of other faiths and offers a wealth of beauty and tradition accumulated during the more than five score years of its existence. In the words of Booth Tarkington, whose mother attended Saint Mary-of-the-Woods, "Something rare and fine was brought from France . . . and none of those who were students there remained unaffected by it."

ACCREDITATION The college is a member of the North Central Association, the Association of American Colleges, the Catholic Educational Association, the American Council on Education. It is affiliated with The Catholic University of America, Indiana University, the American Medical Association, and recognized by the Department of Education of various states.

COURSES lead to the B.A. or B.S. degrees. In motivating its general scholastic aim to specific ends, it has included also curricula leading to occupational ends, such as Home Economics, Commerce and Finance, Journalism, Pre-medical, Medical Technology, Music, and Education. Beautiful campus. Well-equipped library and laboratories. All sports.

GEORGETOWN COLLEGE

FOUNDED 1787

Chartered As A College 1829

A Glorious Past

Georgetown College was chartered more than a century ago, but as an educational institution its origin dates back to 1787. Its approximately seven thousand graduates and ex-students have played vital roles in establishing the traditions that are America's heritage, shedding light first on the vast wilderness west of the Alleghenies and later throughout the entire Mississippi Valley.

A Purposeful Future

The purpose of Georgetown College is to develop the entire personality, the body, the mind and the heart. In the year of the institution's origin that great expression of lighted minds and hearts, the Constitution of the United States, was adopted. Today Georgetown College again sees the crying need for men and women of lighted hearts and dedicates itself to this supreme objective.

Located in a small, cultured and historic community twelve miles north of Lexington, Ky., Georgetown College is fully accredited and offers the usual liberal arts and teacher training courses leading to the A.B. degree.

LYNCHBURG COLLEGE

Self Realization Paramount Objective

As a Christian institution Lynchburg College is committed to the principle that every individual is of infinite worth. As a small college of limited enrollment it believes itself to be in a particularly favorable position to achieve that most important of objections, maximum self-realization of the individual. Every activity, curricular or extra-curricular, is directed toward this end, and judged by what it contributes toward this purpose.

Located on a two-hundred acre campus in a setting of great natural beauty, the student at Lynchburg College pursues his studies in an environment admirably adapted to the objective stated above.

A standard, four year college fully accredited, Lynchburg College records and degrees are accepted by the best graduate and professional schools.

Shurtleff College is one of the earliest of the many colleges founded in the Mississippi Valley. For one hundred and nineteen years it has been in continuous operation and the impact on the nation of its many illustrious graduates has been a great force for good in the expanding republic.

Founded under the auspices of the Baptist Church, Shurtleff College is distinctly Christian in ideals and seeks to produce the type of broadly cultured, clear thinking, spiritually minded men and women so much needed by our democracy in the years ahead.

Of limited enrollment and with a select student body, Shurtleff College and its faculty aims at achieving the highest possible development of individual capacities.

From its origin in 1846, Mount Union College has admitted men and women on an equal basis, and thus became one of the first institutions of college rank to graduate men and women on an exact equality. Always emphatically religious in its principles, it has been singularly free from sectarian bias and through the years has pursued a policy of accepting the best of the new, while holding fast to the best of the old, in education.

Here, through the beneficence of past friends, and, we trust, future friends, as well, Christian young men and women pursue studies defrayed in large part by the income from generous endowments, making possible the creation of Christian leadership that stretches into the far corners of the nation.

DEFIANCE COLLEGE

FOUNDED 1850

A Small College of Limited Enrollment and Intimate Associations

As it approaches 100 years of service, Defiance College looks back upon a long and memorable history as the educational center of Northwestern Ohio. Intimately associated with the Congregational and Christian Churches, it has sent forth into the life of the nation a type of self reliant, christianly men and women who have made their mark in every profession and field of endeavor.

Because it is a small college of limited enrollment the individuality of each student is not submerged. The best in character and ability is developed through personal guidance and intimate associations. Through wholesome environment, emphasis upon essentials, skilled and sympathetic instruction and high standards of scholarship and of character, Defiance College aims to become constantly more efficient in the kind of education whose ideal is Christian, whose spirit is unselfish service, and whose purpose is the enlargement and enrichment of life.

PHILOSOPHY & OBJECTIVES

Hiram College is a small, privately endowed, co-educational college of liberal arts. Founded by the Disciples Of Christ, it is definitely Christian in heritage and purpose, but non-secterian in outlook and teaching. It stands for spiritual enrichment, sound moral and intellectual development, the broad ideal of the liberal arts and a thoroughly democratic community life. The College fosters self engendered discipline of mind and body and seeks to adapt training to individual needs through a careful guidance program.

INTENSIVE STUDY PLAN

Under the Intensive Study Plan, in successful operation since 1934, the attention of student and teacher on one main task replaces the dispersal of effort over several courses. By concentrating on a six hour course, it is finished in nine weeks instead of nine months. At the end of 36 weeks the Hiram student has taken four such intensive courses and one course which runs throughout the year. Thus the student is better able to unify his intellectual effort and the instructor to offer a more profound guidance.

The Packer Collegiate Institute

Established 1845

100 YEARS OF SERVICE

Packer's 100 years of service in the field of higher education for women exemplify the strength of tried and tested scholastic and spiritual ideals as these come into practical and cultural contact with life as it flows in a great American city.

In the post-war era, as in the past, because of its location, its staff and its traditions, the school will offer unusual advantages in preparing students for an enlightened and gracious womanhood.

THE SCHOOL
has two departments, academic and elementary. The former covers the ninth through the twelfth grades, presenting both college preparatory and general courses. The latter includes classes for four and five year old children, and eight elementary grades.

THE JUNIOR COLLEGE
offers the usual first two years of college work, plus studio art; the courses being organized into liberal arts, pre-business, pre-nursing, fine arts, secretarial studies, home-making and laboratory position. Packer was one of the first to offer college level work to women.

SOUTHERN SEMINARY and JUNIOR COLLEGE

A SCHOOL OF CHARACTER

Southern Seminary's purpose is to educate the whole girl, intellectually, spiritually, physically and socially and to fit her to live effectively in the world of today. Each detail of its location, environment and general program contributes happily to this purpose.

Supplementing and enhancing a guidance program which seeks to direct the expression of unique personality traits into channels of greatest self-realization is an atmosphere of home life which permeates every activity and cultivates those attitudes of mind and heart which are not acquired from books or lecturers. The school is located in the Blue Ridge Mountains seven miles from historic and cultural Lexington where the beauty and traditions of the surroundings act as an inspiration to health and the intellect.

Administrative stability and proved objectives, characteristic of America's most successful educational institutions, is marked at Southern Seminary by a record of but two changes in administration since its founding in the year 1868.

The DANA HALL Schools

Tenacre This Junior School accommodates students from pre-primary through the ninth grade. Boys are accepted in the primary department. The school has a total enrollment of one hundred eighty students, including the resident group of sixty girls. Courses are planned to follow the best modern educational practices. An excellent program of physical training gives balance to the academic work which is of high standard. Outdoor sports are stressed, including riding, tennis, hockey, baseball, skiing, and skating. Students live in five homelike centers in the midst of spacious grounds. The school is well-equipped and has a highly trained staff of teachers. Students finishing Tenacre are prepared for both the College and General Courses at Dana Hall.

Dana Hall The scope of this well-known school includes not only a College Preparatory Course but a well-selected General Course for students who do not desire to enter college. Dana Hall represents thorough scholarship, general culture, and the many advantages of a large, highly organized school. Its graduates are admitted without examination to all the leading colleges for women that accept students by certificate. The school possesses the advantages of both country and city life. Gymnasium work in a large and thoroughly equipped building, field sports, and a stable of unusually fine saddle horses are in charge of competent physical directors. Under proper chaperonage the students enjoy the rare opportunities which Boston offers in music and art.

JUNIOR COLLEGE

FOUNDED in 1803 as Bradford Academy, Bradford Junior College is the oldest institution in New England for the higher education of women. From the earliest days it has offered courses beyond the secondary school level, and it was the first junior college for women to meet the standards for junior college membership set by the New England Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools.

LOCATED in Bradford, Massachusetts, thirty miles from Boston, the College offers unusual advantages to its students. The young women enjoy a happy combination of city and country life. An interesting extramural program of activities is made possible by the many places of great cultural and historic importance which are in the vicinity.

AIMS AND OBJECTIVES

BRADFORD believes the basis of education to rest on the traditional and makes wide use of what has been tried and proved in the past. But Bradford strives not only to supply standard instruction in the liberal arts and sciences, but also to prepare students in other ways to face the world ultimately as intelligent, well-adjusted adults. Able counselors, through close personal association as well as intelligence and guidance tests, enable students to pursue clearly defined educational objectives.

Harcum's exposition of the Junior College ideal is based upon the fundamental need of every girl for self-realization, whether it be in the arts, business or the home. The Junior College offers the most flexible means of achieving this realization, and it is the first responsibility of the Harcum faculty not only to aid but to interest girls in the development of their peculiar talents—known or unknown.

A more ideal environment would be difficult to find. Bryn Mawr, with its cultural and social advantages, is a national tradition. In physical equipment, in associates, in faculty and social activities, Harcum maintains this tradition at its best. Because enrollment is limited, and girls are accepted according to home background and personal desirability, unusually high standards of scholarship, dignity and good taste prevail. Placement. GREENBRIER COLLEGE

Greenbrier is definitely a four year institution for young women. The curriculum includes two years of college preparatory work and two years of standard college work.

Greenbrier believes that a general, liberal education is prerequisite to effective specialized training.

Greenbrier believes in holding fast to all that is tried and true in education. A sane social life and healthful recreational activities are given prominence.

Greenbrier believes that an appreciation of music, art, and dramatic art is essential to well developed womanhood.

Greenbrier believes in and practices student government. The Honor Code prevails in all departments.

Greenbrier believes that sound physical development is a patriotic duty on the part of young womanhood, and therefore has a definite daily program with this ideal in view.

Greenbrier believes that poise and grace are invaluable assets for any woman and that they can only be acquired by daily practice; consequently good form and gracious living are emphasized.

EDUCATIONAL GUIDANCE

Education of young women, under highly favorable conditions, is offered at Stratford College. The individual student, at the same time, is directed to pursuits in life for which she is best adapted. Courses of study include English, Foreign Languages, History, Science, Mathematics, Bible, Education, Journalism, Music (Piano, Voice), Art, including Interior Decoration and Costume Designing, the Speech Arts, and Secretarial Science. The College is a non-profit corporation, not affiliated with any denomination but its spirit is always Christian. A preparatory department is maintained which prepares the student for any college. Graduates of the junior college courses may transfer to senior colleges and universities.

LOCATION

The location of the College, near the southern line of Virginia in the foothills of the Blue Ridge Mountains, with a strikingly beautiful campus of thirteen acres, is recognized as one of the most attractive in the Atlantic States. Tennis courts, a basketball court and grounds for hockey, volley ball and archery, afford every opportunity for recreation and athletics. Horseback riding is popular. This region is widely known for its equable climate and health-giving qualities.

TRADITIONS

Several chapters mark the progress of the school. Beginning as a Methodist College about a hundred years ago, it became the Danville College for Young Ladies, later the Randolph-Macon School for Girls and since 1930 has operated under its present name. Buildings and grounds have been enlarged and beautified and equipment thoroughly modernized. Stratford carries the name of the ancestral home of the notable Lee family.

ONE HUNDRED YEARS

A PREPARATORY SCHOOL FOR BOYS

Founded in 1841 by Samuel Williston, the school has always given first rate instruction and has successfully prepared thousands of its students for the best colleges and scientific schools.

In a genuinely democratic atmosphere it seeks in every way to encourage initiative, to develop a sense of responsibility and of honor, to foster a spirit of coöperation and of reverence for the best things in life.

The endowment permits moderate rates, $1000 to $1150. These can be reduced through scholarships.

Full athletic equipment, includes new gymnasium with swimming pool, athletic fields, tennis courts, hockey rink, ski trail.

THE JUNIOR SCHOOL for young boys is housed in separate buildings under a separate faculty, including a Headmaster and a Housemother. It provides thorough instruction and most careful training in all that goes to make sound character.

The School was founded in 1896 by the Hon. William G. Choate.

Its location, about twelve miles north of New Haven, has proved to be one of the most healthful in New England.

Its numbers are large enough to make for strong esprit de corps and wholesome rivalry, without being so large as to prevent a distinct family life and the necessary attention to individuality and development.

Its policy is by a large corps of masters to give to each boy what he individually needs, without holding to any rigid system of forms.

Its effort is unsparing to strengthen in the boys' minds high motives of action which shall permanently control their lives; and to send out boys who are trained for responsible citizenship.

CARSON LONG INSTITUTE

Founded by Theodore K. Long

CARSON LONG is a military school, possessing all of the advantages of that type of institution, plus educational and spiritual advantages that teach a boy How to Learn, How to Labor and How to Live. It develops sound bodies in disciplined minds, and in both athletics and education does not sacrifice the less favored to the star performer.

Physical equipment is of the best. Beautiful campus and grounds of 50 acres, located in the foothills of the Blue Ridge Mountains, overlook the 20-mile expanse of Sherman's and Juniata Valleys. The school is 28 miles from Harrisburg, and a short distance from the Susquehanna River. Advantages of the location make themselves known in many ways, not the least of which is the lowered cost of living—making possible the unusual base rate of—

RIVERDALE COUNTRY SCHOOL

Frank S. Hackett, Headmaster

A Boarding and Day School

Riverdale is controlled by a board of trustees who, in conjunction with the headmaster and faculty, have seen the need for conducting and perpetuating an independent, non-profit boarding school within the environs of America's greatest metropolis, and with the location and full facilities for a country day school program.

Pioneer in 1907 in the latter movement, Riverdale has always accepted and prepared boarding as well as day boys for college in a rural atmosphere close to the manifold opportunities of the city. Independently directed, the school has sought to retain the good, reject the unwise in education, and achieve a philosophy which treats the individual as such, seeking through a spirit of freedom the development of compulsion that comes from within, and the attainment of character expressed in the ability to meet every problem in a socially useful manner. Fully accredited. Undenominational.

Prepares Boys Exclusively for

MASSACHUSETTS INSTITUTE OF TECHNOLOGY

A day and resident school that for one hundred and eighteen years has successfully trained its students not only to pass entrance requirements, but also to achieve marked success after entering college or technical school.

Students are taught the art of study; the value of close and persistent application; to think clearly and to express themselves concisely and accurately.

For the past forty years the school has specialized in the training of young men for the MASSACHUSETTS INSTITUTE OF TECHNOLOGY. The courses in Mathematics, Physics, and Chemistry are therefore much broader in scope and more exacting in requirements than those usually given in preparatory schools. The success of the school in this special preparation is attested by the fact that during the past seventeen years the school has enrolled students from forty-five foreign countries and forty-five of the United States.

VIRGINIA EPISCOPAL SCHOOL

George Lloyd Barton, Jr., Ph. D., Headmaster

Origin and Aim The school was established for boys of character, position and ability who desire the best in education and Christian guidance at the lowest possible cost. Operated as a non-profit institution under the auspices of the Episcopal Church, it is nevertheless open to boys of other Christian faiths. High character, pure and healthy bodies, receptive minds and the spirit of unselfish service are the ideals of the student body and teaching personnel.

The Code of the Gentleman The relationships of the school are subject to the code of a Christian gentleman. An Honor System enforced by the boys themselves is firmly established and the atmosphere is that of a normal Christian home where the spirit of all concerned is steadfastly set against every tendency to destroy those ties of brotherhood which are designed to preserve the harmony of society.

Buildings and Grounds

The buildings in which the boys are housed are of brick and modern in every respect. Located on a beautiful site of one hundred and fifty acres in the foothills of the Blue Ridge mountains, the school is only four and one-half miles from Lynchburg's business center, adjoining, but set apart from, the city's best residential section.

KENTUCKY Military Institute operates two plants, spending the severe cold months at their winter home in Venice, Florida, on the Gulf of Mexico. Their Kentucky plant is located at Lyndon, eleven miles from Louisville, and has a one-hundred acre campus, which is unsurpassed for its natural beauty. Their winter home in Florida consists of thirty-five acres. It is made up of four units—the class rooms and cadet quarters, the offices and dining room, the bath house and casino on the beach, and the club house and golf course. The Kentucky Military Institute was the first school in the United States to transport its entire student body and faculty to Florida.

The faculty is composed of men of demonstrated ability and high character. Small classes and supervised study periods insure individual attention.

Graduates may enter the major colleges and universities of the country which accept entrance upon certificate.

By a Faculty of Capable, Sympathetic Instructors

Florida Military Academy possesses unusual advantages of climate, physical equipment and faculty. It is distinctly a school of refinement and cultural atmosphere, in a setting of unsurpassed beauty, designed to bring out the best in each boy's aesthetic and educational equipment, while losing none of the disciplinary and virile character-building qualities inherent in the military type of institution.

The student body is non-sectarian and cosmopolitan in aspect, students being drawn from over 30 states and several foreign possessions. A strong faculty, with small classes, insures maximum development of every cadet. Graduates are now in attendance at leading colleges and universities of the United States.

GEORGIA MILITARY ACADEMY

A School of Close Personal Guidance

Georgia Military Academy's philosophy of education is built upon the home rather than the barracks plan of school life. Small groups of boys in home-type buildings receive the guidance and inspiration of capable and sympathetic teachers who live with them. Small classes, an environment conducive to study, plus complete participation in play activities and drill insure well-rounded development of the whole boy—mentally, socially and physically.

G.M.A. graduates have achieved distinction in business, professional and political life for forty-five years. In normal times ninety percent of its graduates enter institutions of higher learning. The record of G.M.A. graduates in World War I and II is a glorious one, listing over two thousand men in service, mostly commissioned officers, with two Brigadier Generals and more than half a hundred Majors, Lt. Colonels and Colonels.

A Tried and Tested Philosophy of Education

Rich in traditions and replete in achievement Kemper, a pioneer in education, is the oldest boys' school in the West. Over a century of growth and experience, with but few changes in administration, have developed a tried and tested philosophy of education that aims not only to build high scholastic standards, but to go a step beyond purely academic methods of instruction and concedes that the student may be reached through channels other than those of text book and lecture.

An experienced, inspired and independent faculty shapes youth into manhood in the midst of a wholesome environment and under a guidance program that brings each cadet to an intelligent understanding of his responsibilities and opportunities.

Located on a beautiful campus of more than one-hundred rolling acres and possessing one of the best-equipped military school plants in America, Kemper has much to offer those interested in this type of education.

A School The Boy Will Like

Isn't that what you want for YOUR boy? You know how any boy will WORK when the work appeals to him and when the surroundings are congenial. That is one of the great secrets of the success of

St. John's Military Academy

This great school is famous for the ESPRIT of its students and the loyalty of its graduates. It takes a boy at the most impressionable period of his life and by a happy combination of military routine, study, and athletic sports, arouses first his INTEREST, which is quickly followed by loyalty and enthusiasm. With this attitude toward his school, the boy is ready to absorb much more than can be taught from books. The education at St. John's is not a mere "book learning" education. It is broader and deeper. It TRAINS a boy for life and MAKES HIM a GOOD citizen.

The good work of St. John's has been recognized by the government, which maintains a unit of the R. O. T. C. at the school under the supervision of Regular Army Officers.

FACTS THAT MAY BE WARNINGS

THE selection of those listed in Marquis compilations is a unique procedure perfected over the last fifty years. Its characteristic is that all are listed who are found to fall under the carefully patterned classifications prescribing selections

Thus coverage adjusted to reference utility becomes the determinative factor, and not the selected biographee's decision. There results the fundamental difference between a Marquis biographical reference compilation and the "vanity" alphabetical listings of individuals who happen to respond to circularization out of a desire to see their biographical data in print.

Another result of Marquis patterned selectivity has been to bring to the words "who's who" in our language the significance of notability or worthy prominence, which is distinct and separate from either their use generically or as the popular-usage name for WHO'S WHO IN AMERICA.

It follows that when these words are applied to compilations not restricted by effective selective procedures to those actually notable and prominent, and not embodying practically all so qualified, they misrepresent, and so obviously so that pleading usage as a generic term will not exculpate.

Additionally, the fact that WHO'S WHO is the popular-usage designation for a specific work originating from a single source—the Marquis WHO'S WHO IN AMERICA—will inevitably result in confusion and damaging exploitation if more than merely restricted circularizations in connection with local, sectional or vocational compilations are involved, and, indeed, at times there will be a like result in connection with them, even though the projects of such scope may not be obviously competitive with WHO'S WHO itself.

Finally, and in addition to these considerations involving imposition on both the public and definite private rights, there are others directly connected with copyright interests.

WHO'S WHO IN COMMERCE & INDUSTRY

The established reference work in its important field, issued since 1936 in the four standard editions pictured to the right, and compiled by the publishers of "Who's Who in America."

The Fifth International and Tenth Anniversary Edition of "Who's Who in Commerce and Industry" is now in preparation under the supervision of the editors of "Who's Who in America." This publication will give in brief, concise biographical sketches the pertinent facts in the lives of leaders the world over in the fields of trade, industry and finance.

Adequately to serve the demand for "Who's Who in Commerce and Industry" as demonstrated by the success of the first four editions, The A. N. Marquis Co. has placed a special staff in charge of revising the former editions and compiling data for the new edition. This Fifth Edition will be increased in size to contain over 20,000 sketches and will be completely revised and brought up to date.

The reopening of trade channels closed during the war emphasizes the importance of making available reliable data about noteworthy business men in countries again in a position to participate in international commerce, and as well similar information regarding government officials whose responsibilities bring them into contact with commercial activities. In the course of revising the international compilation which "Who's Who in Commerce and Industry" featured before the war, and the objective of which is the listing of such biographees, especial attention will be given to its amplification. Inside the cover of this volume of "Who's Who" you will find a leaflet giving additional information about the new Fifth International—and Tenth Anniversary—Edition of "Who's Who in Commerce and Industry," the last page of which provides a convenient order form which may also be used to request information regarding any Marquis compilation.
